Dedication

In grateful appreciation for the assistance given us throughout our years as students of Mid-Prairie Senior High School; the Hawk staff members dedicate the 1963-64 Hawk to Lola Marner, both secretary and friend. Because she has put up with our misunderstandings and blunders as sophomores, our egos as juniors and our demands as seniors; we will never forget her.

When, as former students, we look back on three years at Mid-Prairie Senior High, among the finest things to recall will be friendships made and special ones remembered.

The best friendship and longest to be remembered will be Lola's because she has been a true friend in fun and work at Mid-Prairie.

Year of Growth

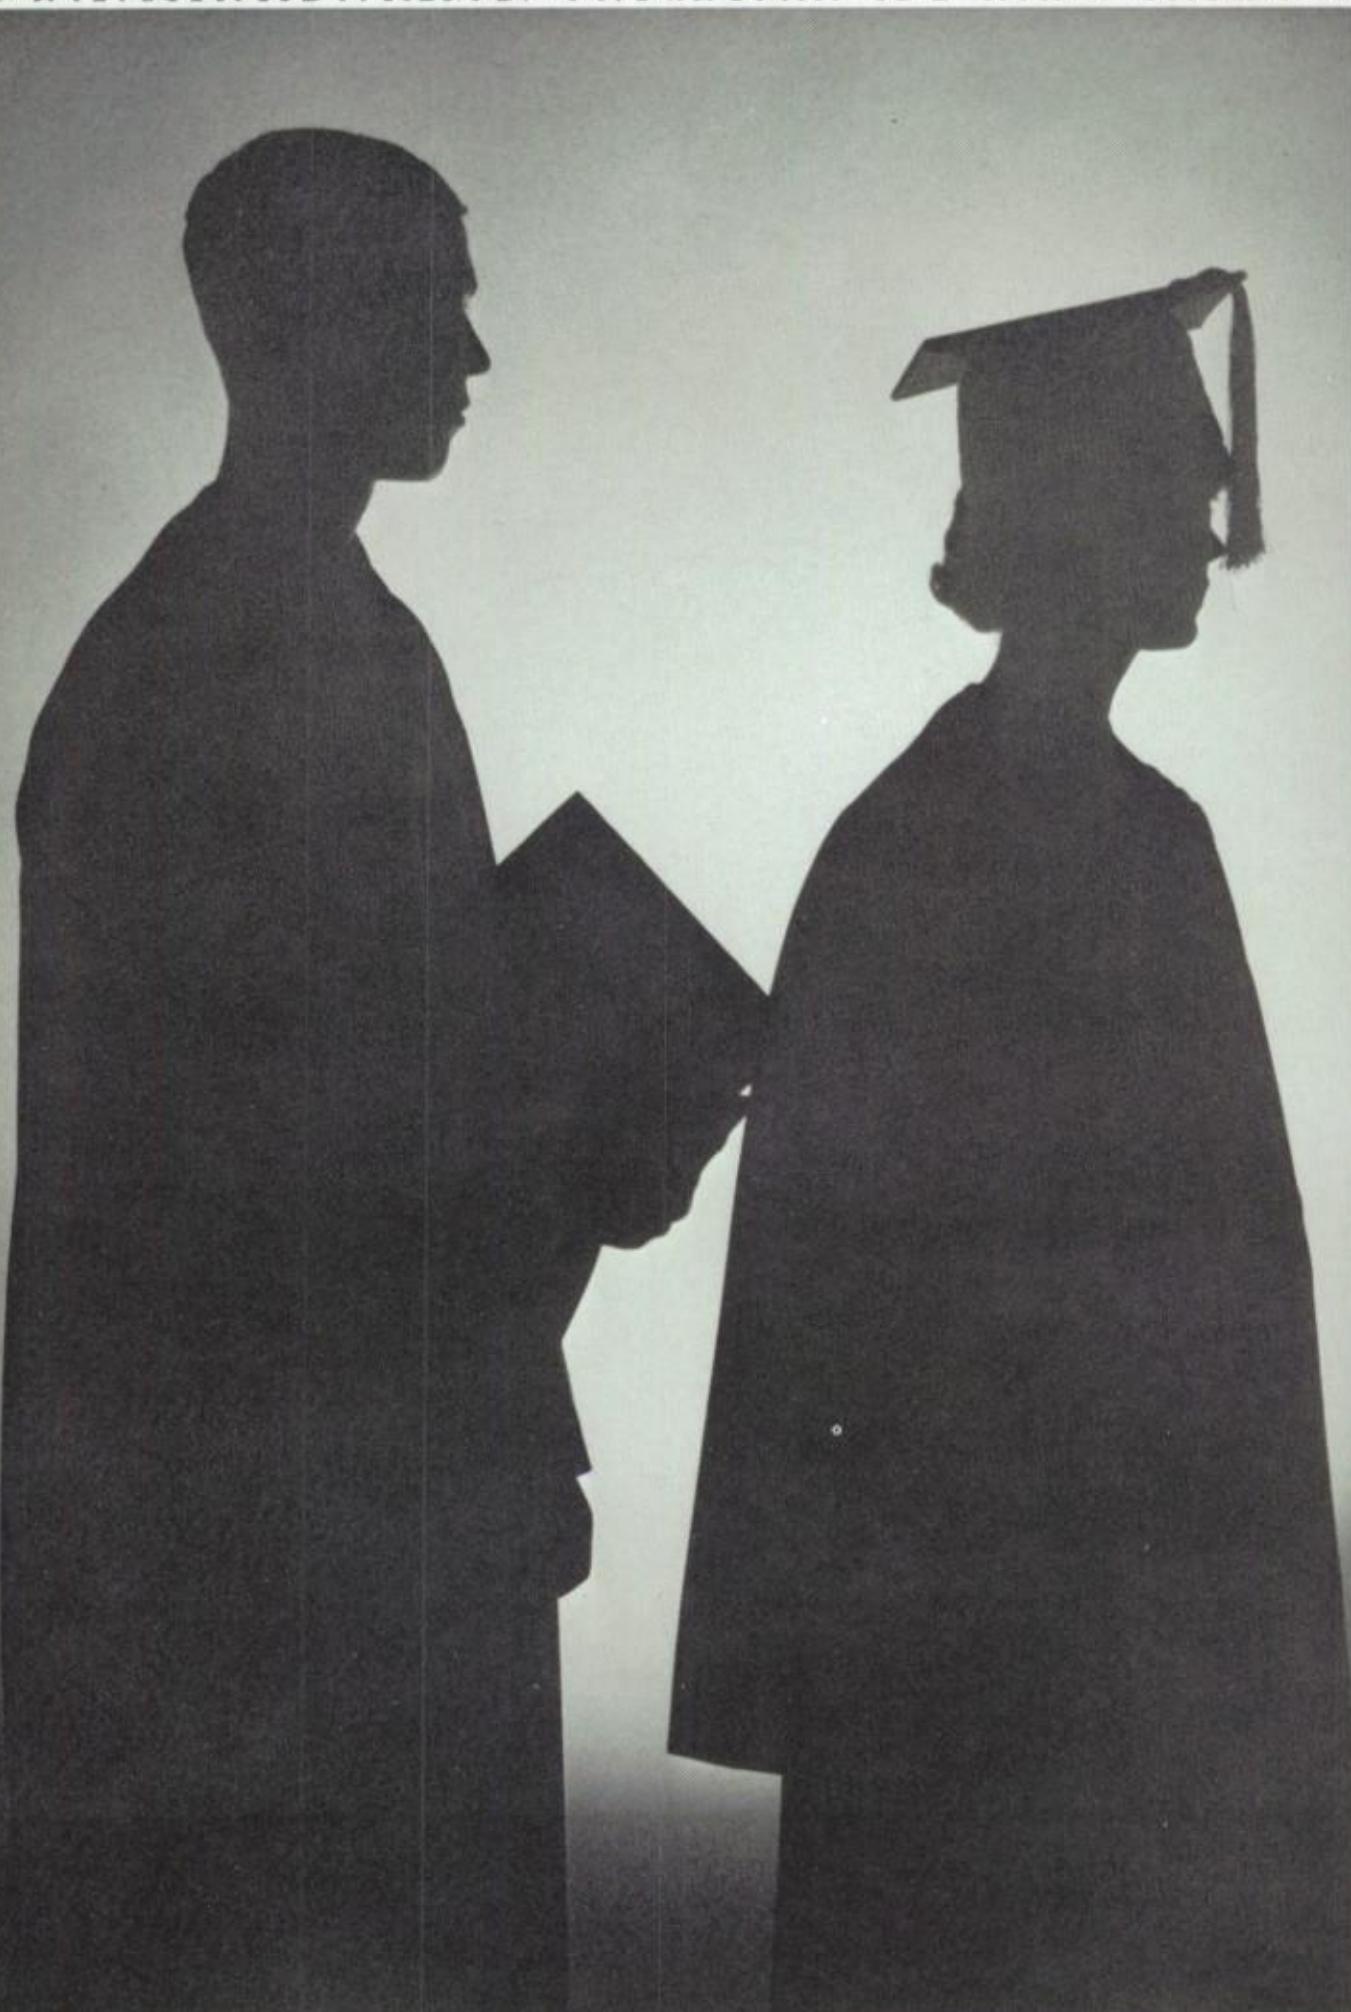

This is Mid-Prairie's year of growth. We present it here in words and in pictures because we feel that it is important. We are proud of it and of our part in it.

Mid-Prairie has grown in many ways and toward many ends. It has moved toward greater beauty through its building. It aims for highest academic excellence and each year nears the goal.

Those who have attended Mid-Prairie and who attend it now take pride in its aim to reach excellence in all fields in which it is involved. They are proud...and they carry Mid-Prairie toward its goal.

Mid-Prairie is growing and, because we have attended M-P, we are growing too.

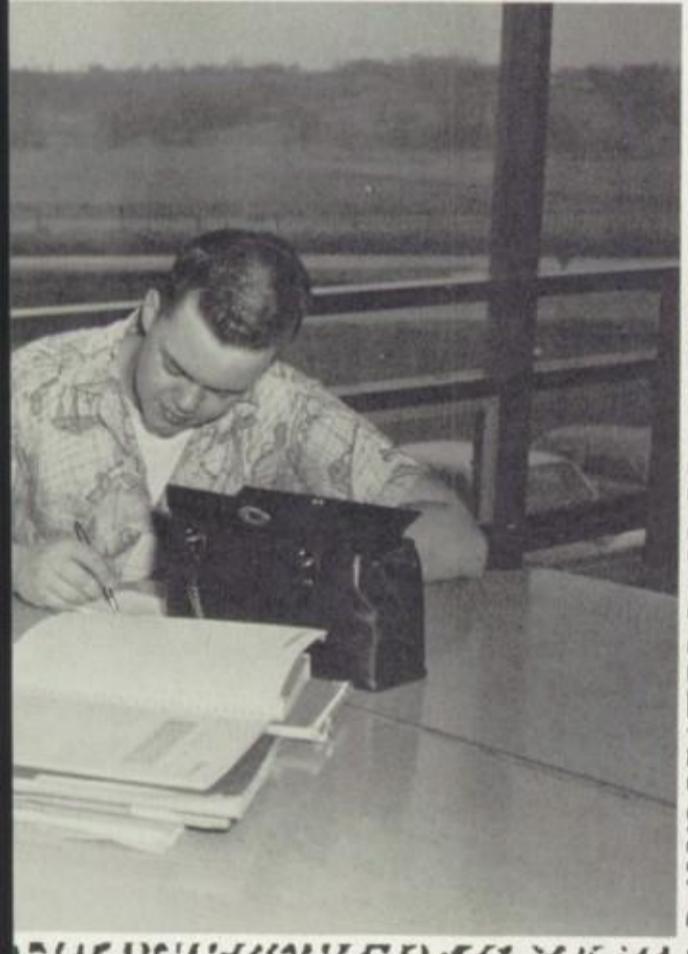

Class of 1964

Study is an integral part of student life. It symbolizes the effort and patience necessary to attain long-range goals. It broadens

Seniors grow in many ways. The time and effort they spend in school has become a drive toward the concepts that have grown with them, the goals of livelihood, home, and family. They choose their courses and activities with these goals in mind, and work for the realization of youthful dreams.

Yet, recreation must not be ignored. The tensions and pressures of life today must be occasionally relaxed, and seniors grow to understand this. As young men and women they must bring their tensions under control and find relief from work-a-day fatigue.

horizons so that modern citizens have a true world-outlook. It is the key to many doors.

People

Mid-Prairie is made up of students who differ in age, in intelligence and in background, but who are all bound by a loyalty to the school and a pride in its accomplishments.

Some students are musicians, some are artists, some are writers, some are athletes and some are salesmen like these. These juniors earned their dogs through salesmanship in a magazine campaign. L to R: Jean Groff, Connie Boone, Nancy Embree, Julie Hobbs, Al Smith.

Each one of these individuals contributes to the shaping of our school personality--that attitude which makes each school different from all others.

In addition to transferring knowledge from one generation to another, school makes possible the exchange of new ideas and attitudes through association. It would be impossible to list the many topics discussed by the students as they linger at lockers, congregate during lunch periods or wait for buses after school.

Students Prepare for Their Future in a Space-Age World

Paul Lampe, Dick Harvey, and Pat Lane prepare oxygen and hydrogen in Physical Science class.

Mathematics at Mid-Prairie has been improved to meet the increasing demands of today's fast-moving world. Students are offered three courses: geometry, algebra, and trigonometry.

Mr. Peterson, the math instructor, also teaches two sophomore physical science classes.

The importance of science in today's Space Age should not be underestimated--cannot be overestimated. New advances and techniques are expanding man's scientific horizons farther than was previously dreamed possible.

This expansion is not confined to a certain area of science, but sweeps into every phase. Mid-Prairie meets the challenge of the time with new science facilities.

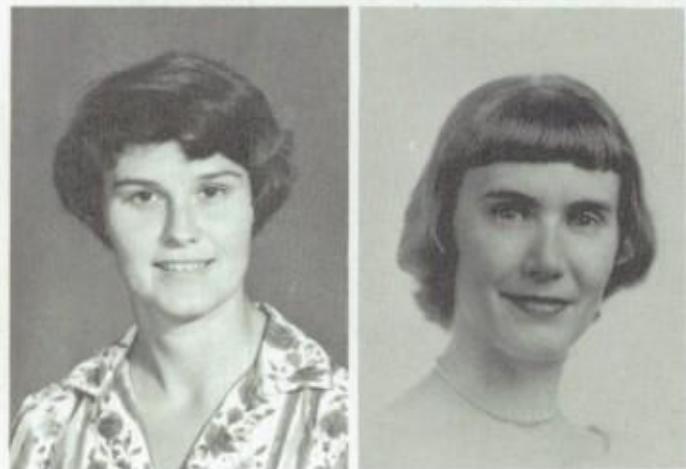

Dee Potsander and Lolly Schlabauah use new equipment in physics labs.

Connie Peterseim and Sandy Figgins study microscopic slides in senior science class.

English Prepares Students for a New World

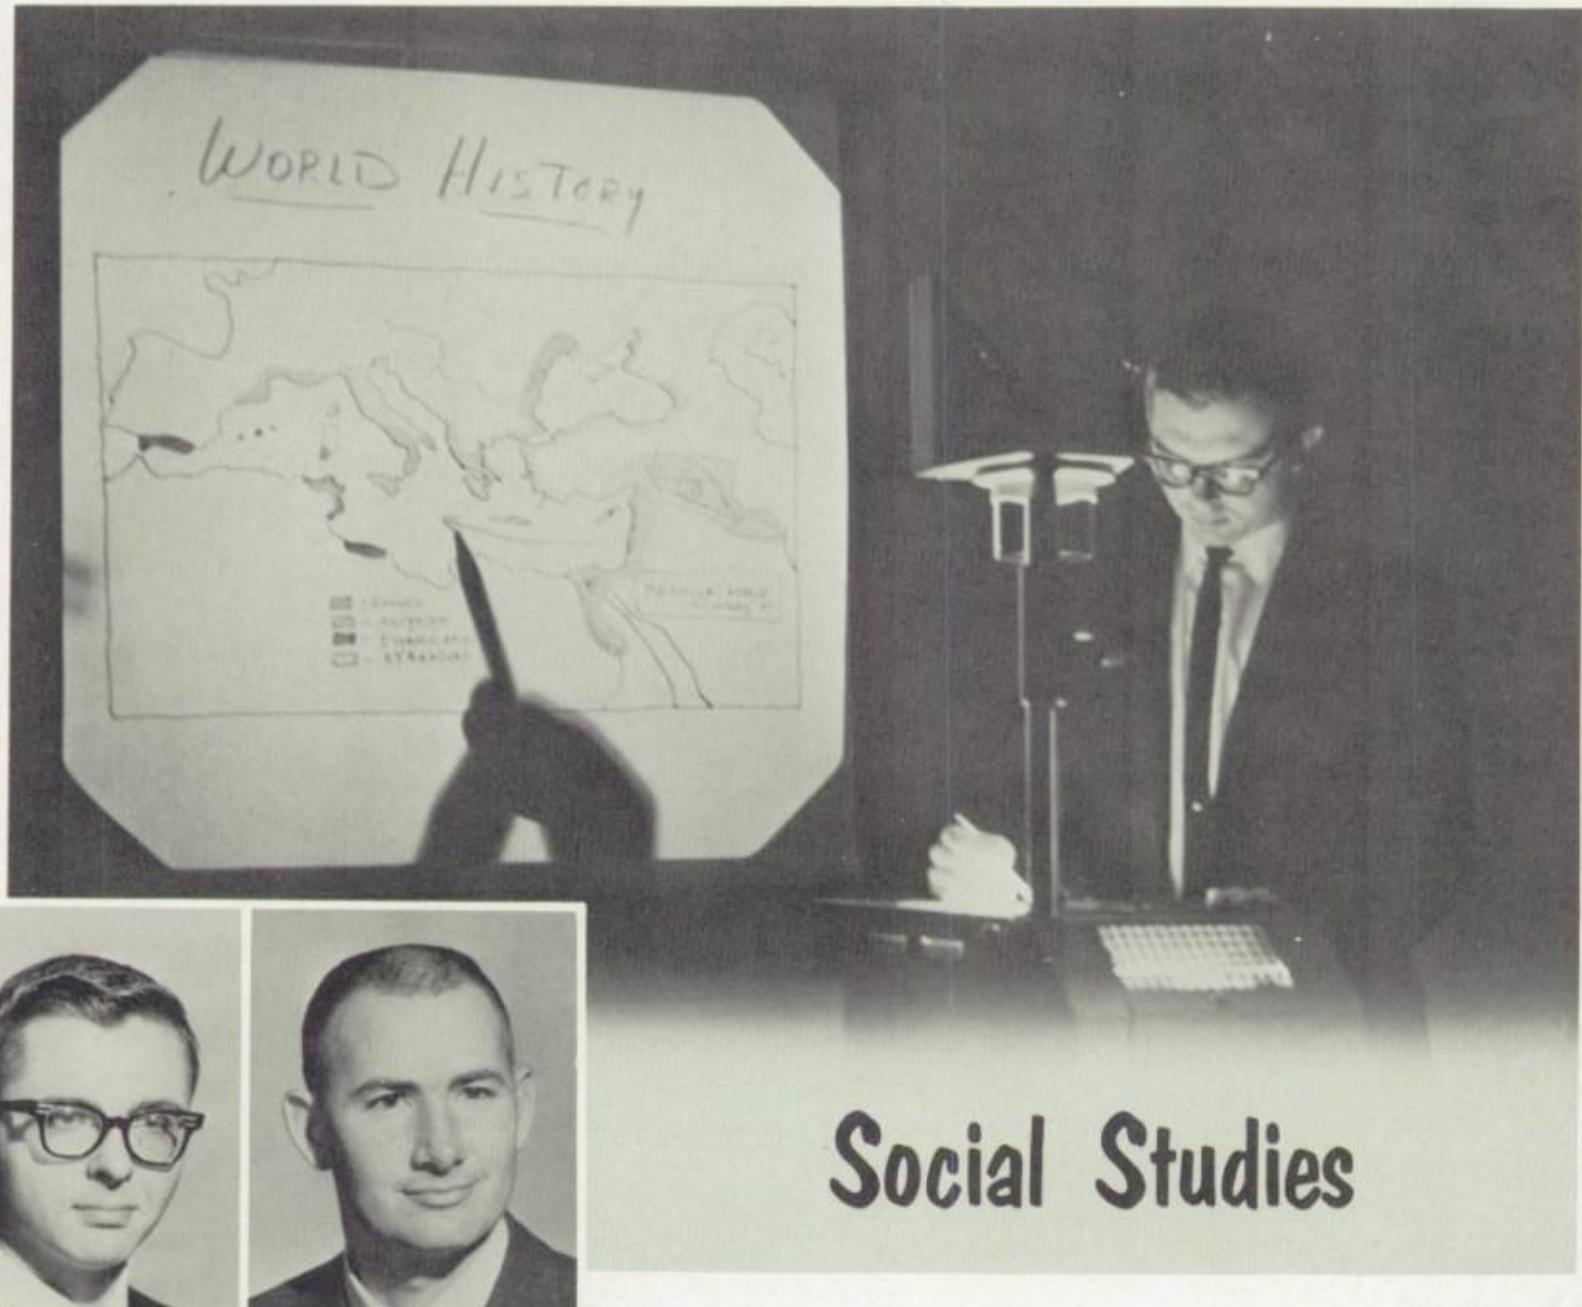

The English Department at Mid-Prairie aims to instruct its students in all areas of English from grammar to American and world literature.

The purpose of English is to prepare a student for the world he will enter after high school. He must be prepared to state and defend his opinions, plans, and ideals. To do this he must have a strong English background so that he can declare his feelings and support them well through his speaking.

Three courses in English are required with one elective course for seniors. In conjunction with the English Department, speech is offered as an elective course.

Terry Crossett consults Mrs. Guldenzopf on some part of the junior English class unit on newspapers and journalism.

Social Science Broadens Student Understanding

A major purpose of social studies is to encourage students to utilize social science data accurately and intelligently. The 1963-64 school year marks a turning point in the social studies curriculum. The current program meets the needs of students interested in any area of this broad field. Eleven courses are offered, six of which are required and five are elective.

Confusing, isn't it? Janice and Janet Yoder stand before the double mirror in the sewing department.

The Home Economics Department aims to meet the needs of the students who wish a practical knowledge which will be of use in personal and home life from an economic, artistic, scientific, and social point of view. Both the technical knowledge and the personality traits are necessary for success in a "woman's world."

Many Business Courses Offered

Recognizing the ever widening opportunities in the business world, the business education department at Mid-Prairie offers a wide variety of courses.

Typing skill may prove valuable for students planning college or business careers. Shorthand and transcription are now available for those who desire more advanced skill. Bookkeeping is a necessity in preparation for any business career. Clerical office practice is offered as a finishing course for business education majors.

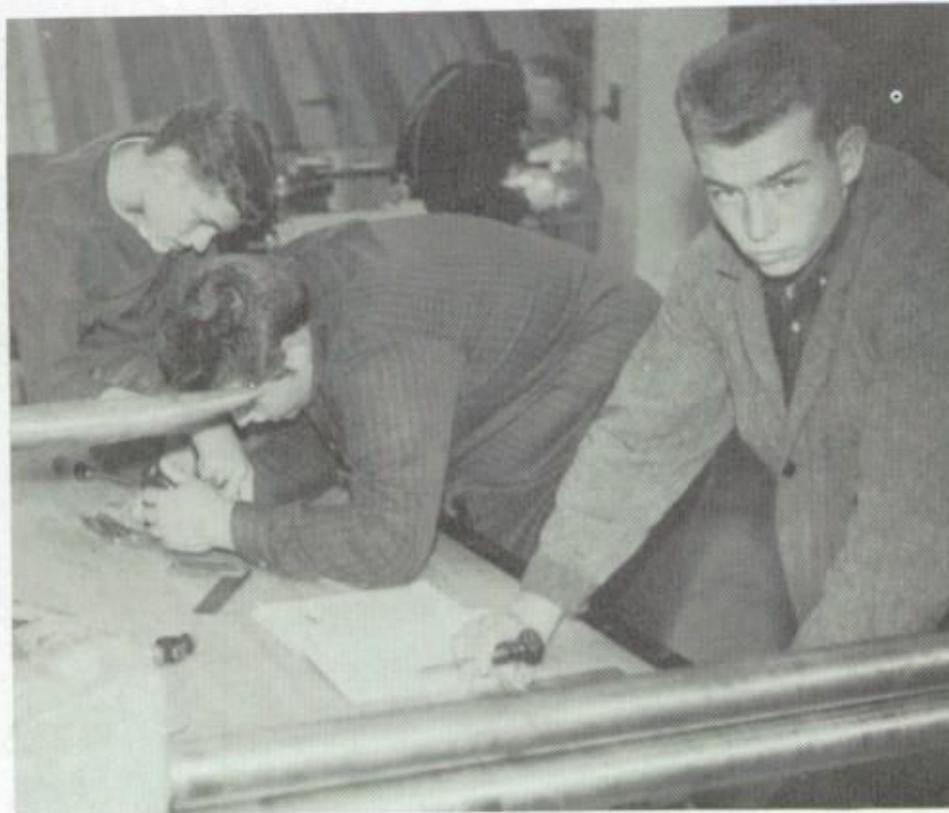

Rick Fry displays proper typing technique.

Shop Classes Offer Practical Training

Under Mr. Parman's direction the boys in the mechanical drawing, wood, metal and advanced shop and woodworking classes are gaining practical training and experience.

'Commencement' is to say, 'Let us begin.' Education is not completed upon receiving a high school diploma or a college degree. Education is never ending.

I encourage you, the 1964 graduates, to seek every opportunity which might expand your knowledge and wisdom from the educational foundation provided by the Mid-Prairie Community. The more you grow intellectually, the better you are able to serve yourself, family, community, state, and country.

On behalf of the Board of Education, staff, and community, I extend congratulations to you. May the contributions of our school and staff be a continuing influence which will enrich your lives.

Mr. Bill Clark
Superintendent

Administration

1963-64 has been a banner year for Mid-Prairie. The entire student body has exhibited an exceptional desire to improve our school and its activities. Many facets of our school program have made lasting contributions to the heritage of Mid-Prairie.

The quality of any school must be, in a large measure, the result of the attitudes and abilities of its student body, and both the faculty and community are well aware of the quality of our school.

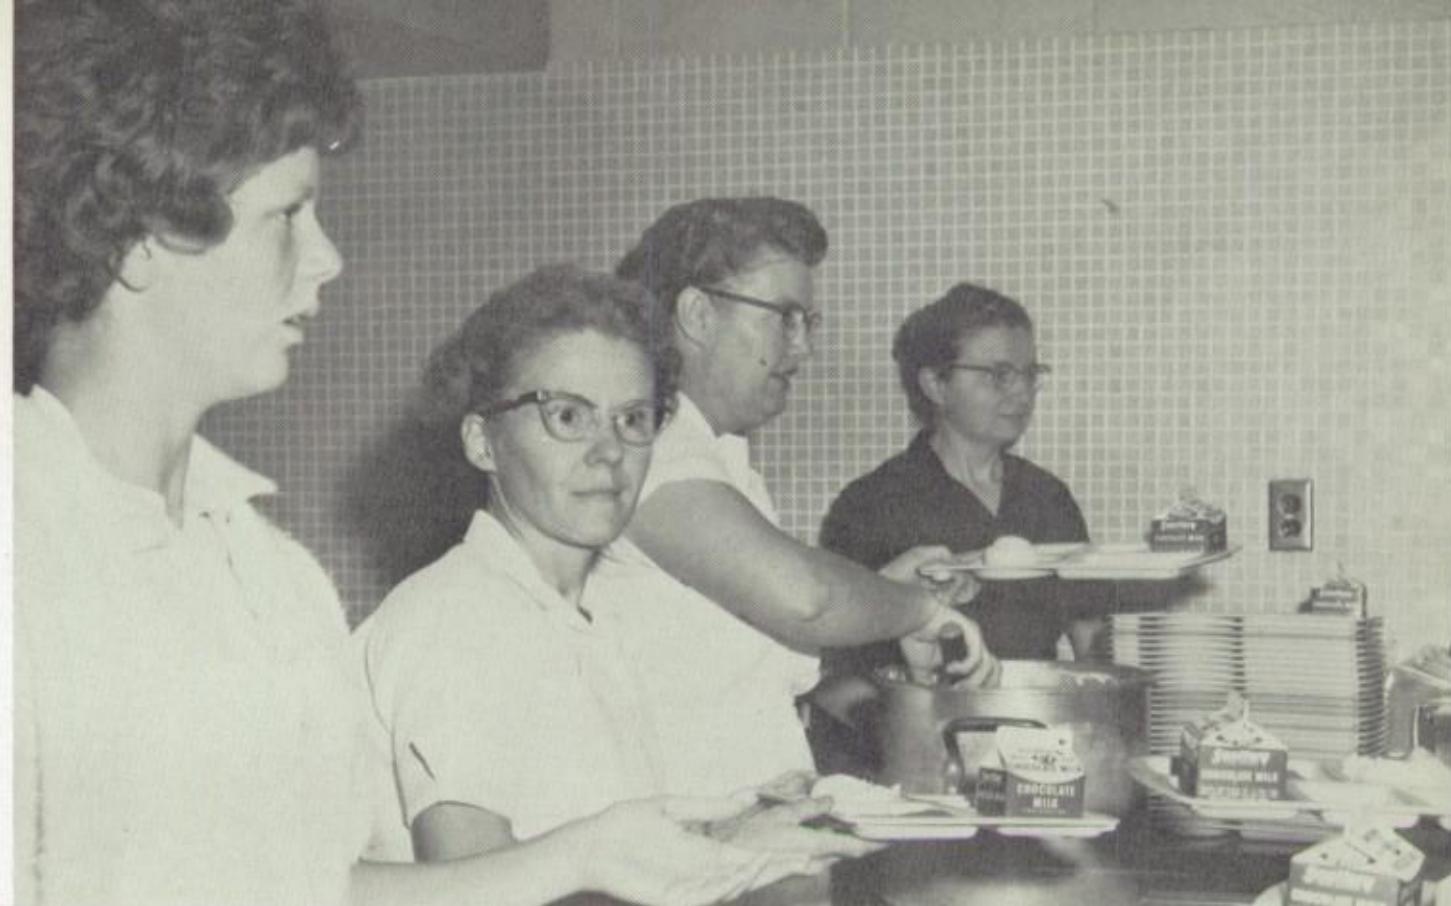

The graduating seniors must take their education with them as they leave and it will form the basis of all that they do and achieve in the future. We sincerely hope that this education will serve and benefit them well and that the 1964 "Hawk" will help them to recall many pleasant memories.

Staff Serves Mid-Prairie

The Mid-Prairie staff serves the students and faculty throughout the year. No task is too small not to merit their attention, whether it be opening a jammed locker, holding up the bus for someone who is a trifle late, or just being there with a smile.

Organizations

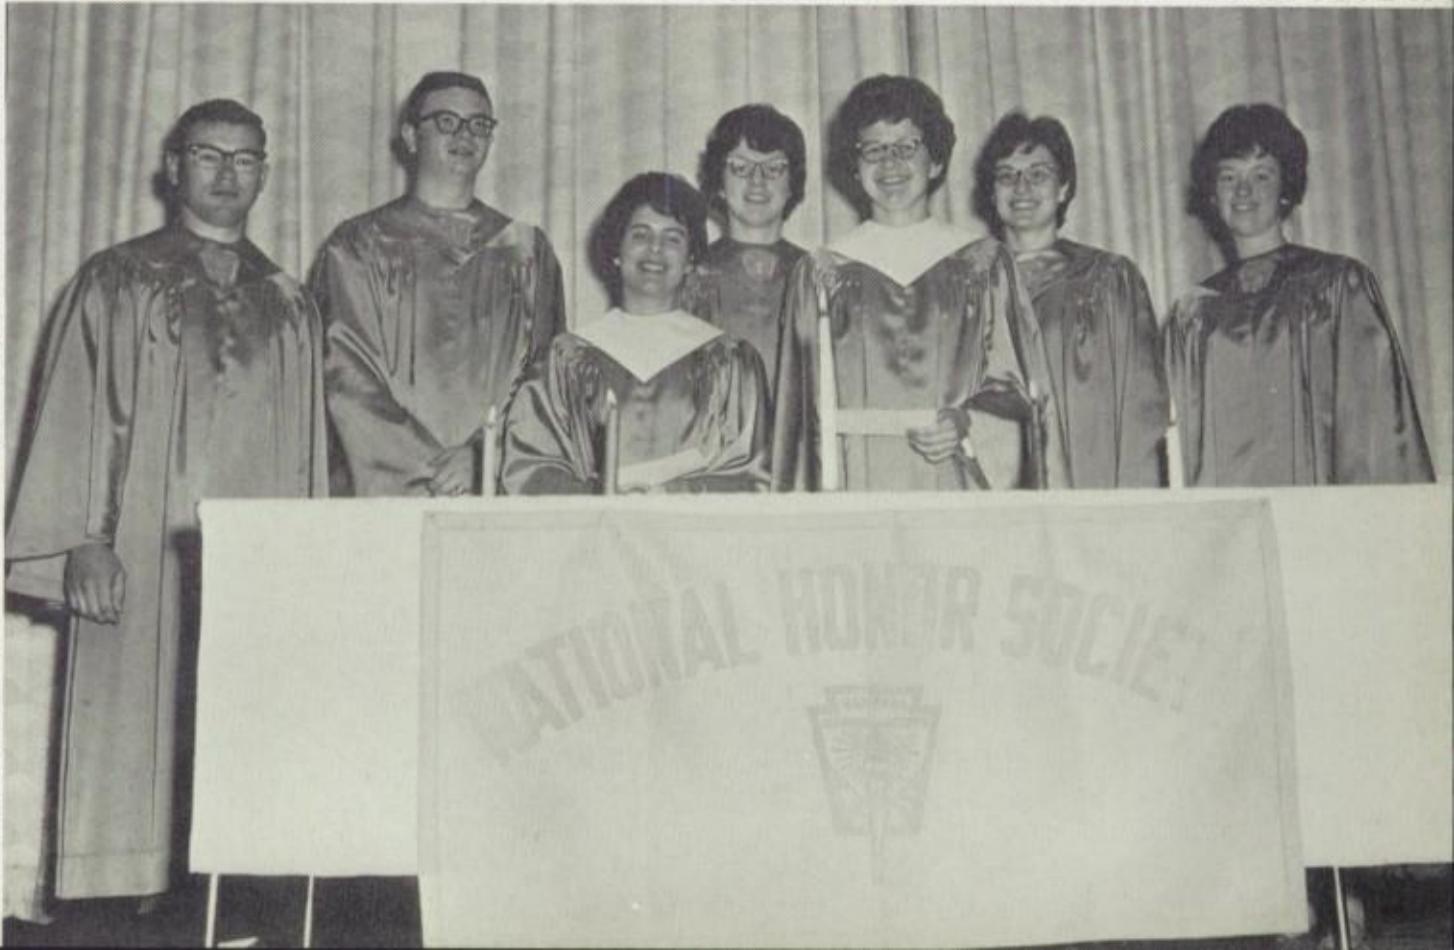

Organizations unify the forces of individual effort. They form the background for a well-rounded life. The students have an opportunity to develop socially as well as intel-

Membership in the many M-P organizations in this school, and willingness and desire to contribute some measure to the school's purpose, indicate their importance. The organizations intend to serve the students by giving them experience in joining others in some service or activity. They serve the school by developing socially adequate as well as intellectually trained students.

As organized bodies of common interest, these groups conduct business, mount service projects, carry on public relations, and promote a general atmosphere of cooperation with the school and community. Their contribution to Mid-Prairie is immeasurable.

Activities

Extra-curricular activities are a means of attaining higher goals than merely the completion of an assignment. They help mold and smooth one's character as he learns to accept responsibility and to co-operate with others.

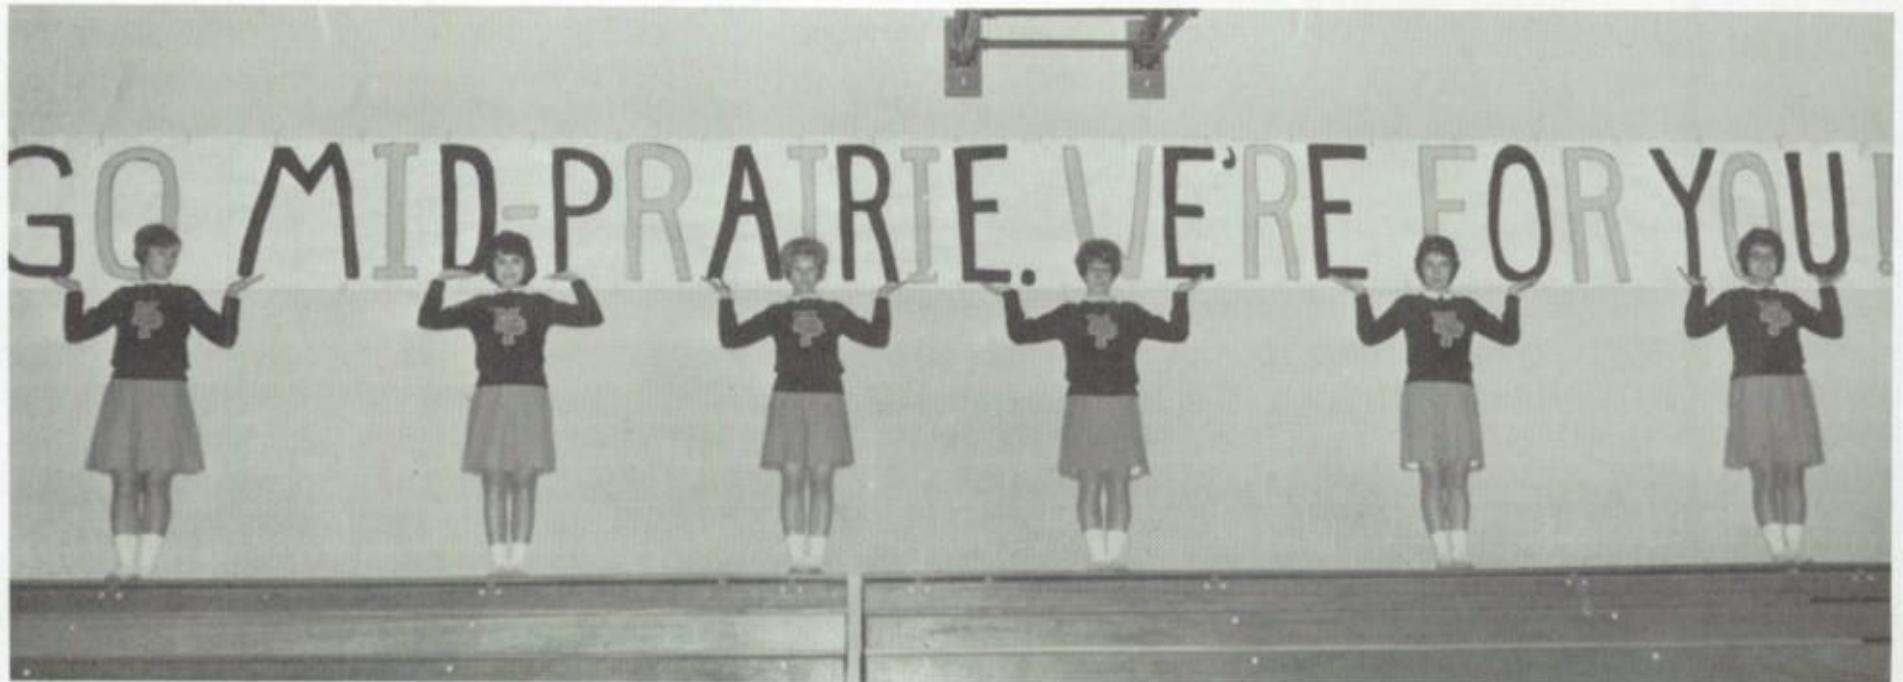

Activities help each individual work for self-improvement. Friendly competition with others can spur a student on to a greater ability and broader understanding. Julia Hobbs, Tom Slockett, and Mary Ann Miller demonstrate musical skill.

The result of cooperation and friendly competition, through activities ranging from athletics to dramatics, is the development of close personal relationships. Such relationships are so firmly cemented that the bonds cannot be broken even by departure from Mid-Prairie.

Perhaps, this picture illustrates the team work which activities build as Deanna Statler and Diana Reif present a special dance number between acts at the musical presented by the mixed chorus.

Rally Spirit

Support for a team is vitally important if victory is to be expected. The support must come from the student body. A cheerleader must help students to release their energy and at the same time combine the mass release into an organized effort that will inspire the team with the determination to win.

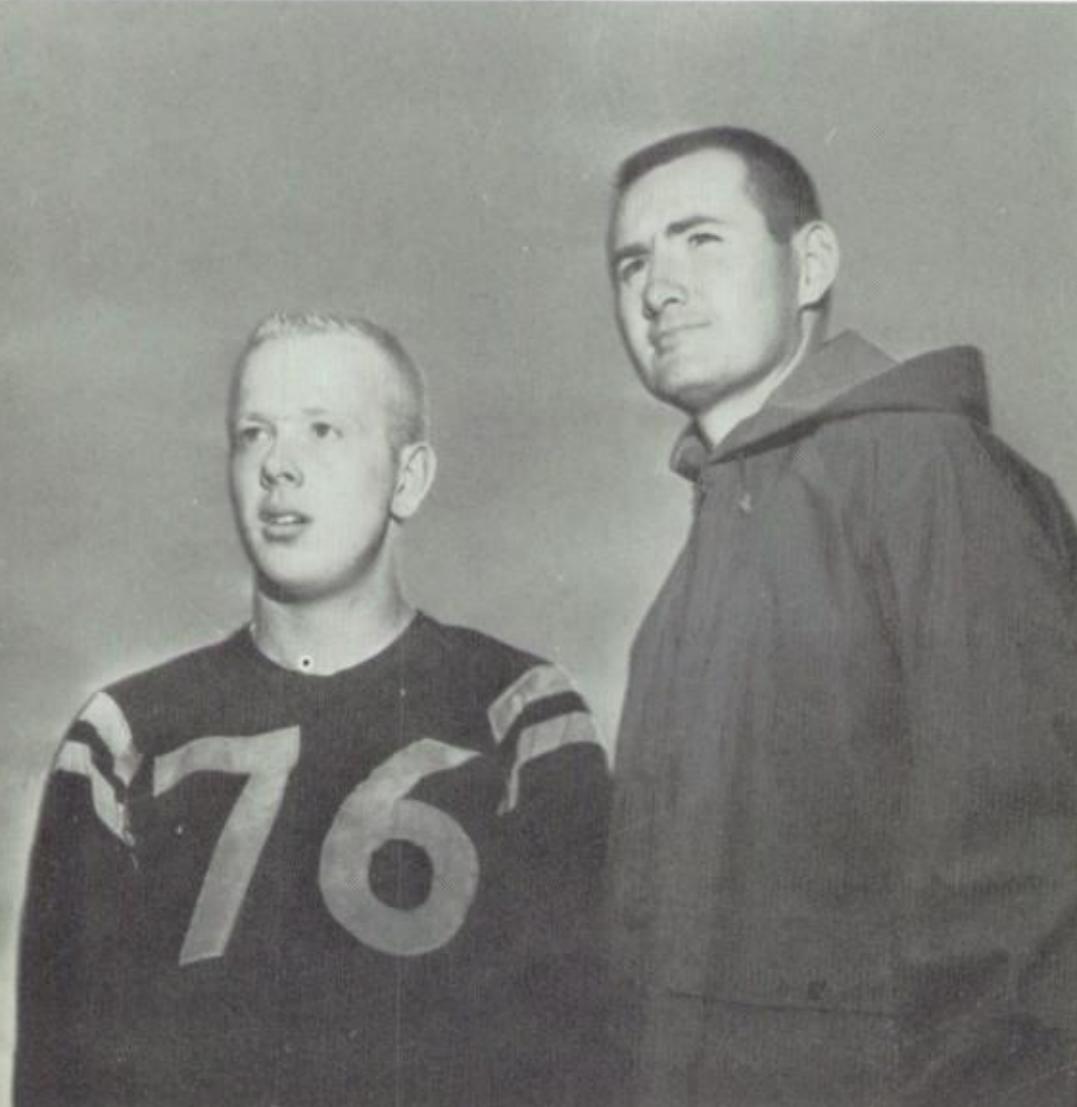

A cheerleader must have confidence in the home team as well as respect for the opponent. In short, a cheerleader must display good sportsmanship and school spirit.

Hawks Play Year As Independent

The 1963 season saw Mid-Prairie as the "school without a conference," as they played a year of independent football while marking time between their former conference, the Miscowa Valley, and their new one, the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye Conference. The Hawks were full conference participants only in basketball and track this year.

The rough schedule as an independent hurt the final record, having played schools in the Miscowa, the Southeast Six, and other conferences, as well as E. I. H. Schools.

Homecoming: 1963

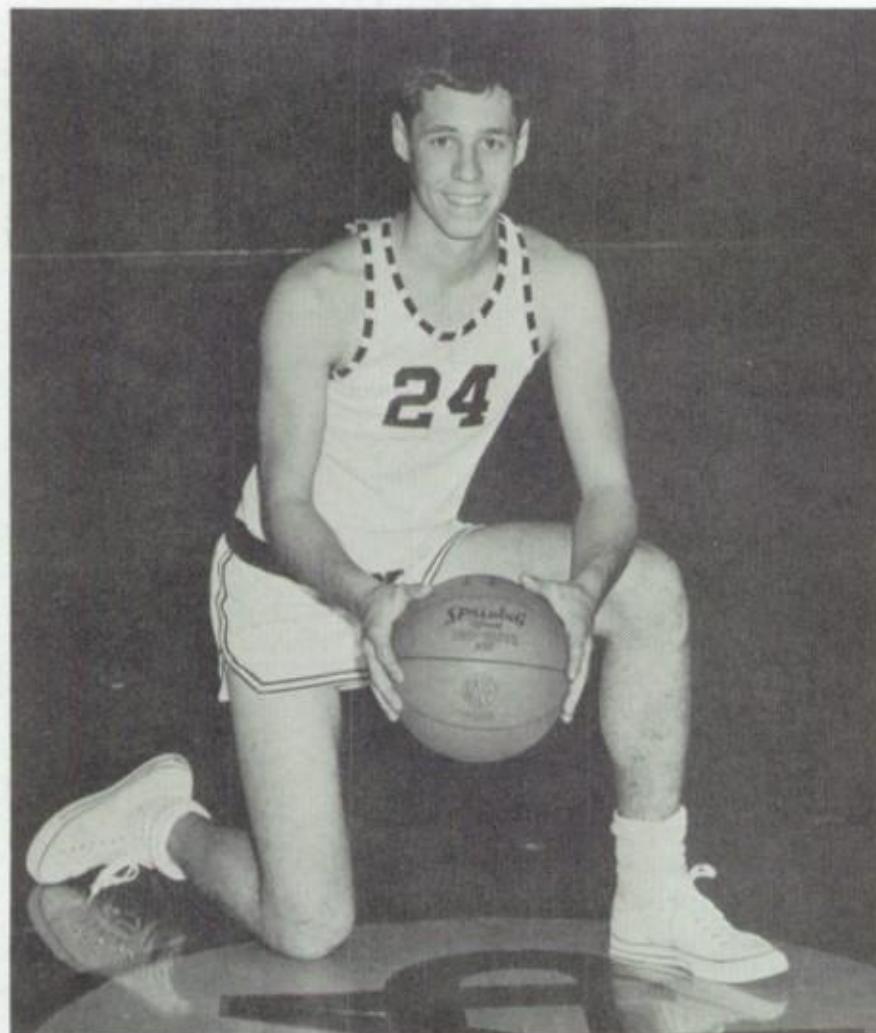

Rusty Parcell and Janice Bates were crowned king and Queen of Mid-Prairie's 1963 Homecoming. They reigned over the game and the Homecoming Dance on the following night. Tom Slockett served as Master of Ceremonies at the pre-game Pep Rally. He introduced three witches, played by Mary Ann Miller, Judy Slemmons, and Sandy Figgins; who predicted a Homecoming victory for Mid-Prairie. Enthusiastic fans cheered but the English Valley team was too strong for the Hawks; they went down in defeat--18-0.

Hawks Enter EIH Conference

The Hawks moved into full participation in the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye Conference in basketball this year, for the first time having their team eligible for conference title and all-conference teams.

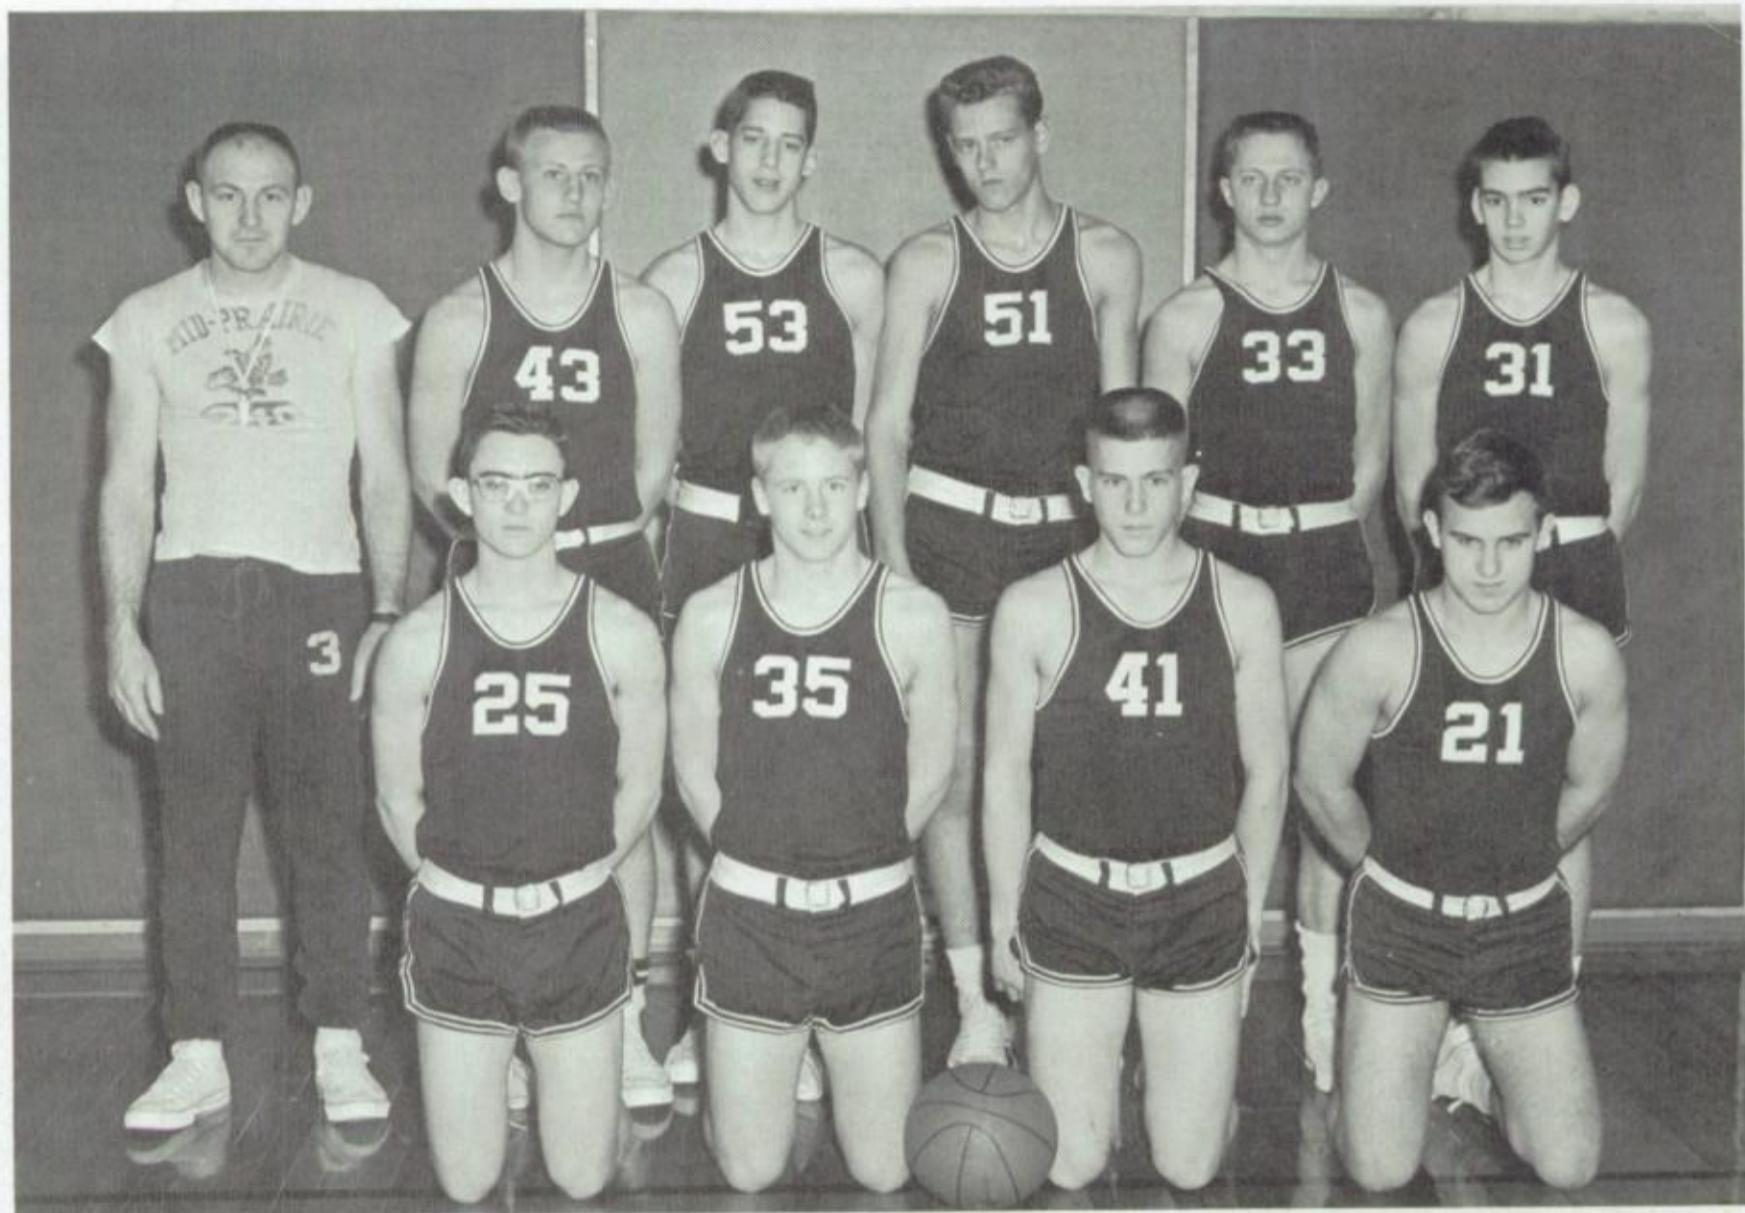

This was a fine basketball year in the EIH, and Mid-Prairie closed 4-10 in the conference. The Wilton Junction team took the title.

Kirk Bailey swept all the scoring honors for the year, and just barely edged out Jerome Yoder and Doug Goschke in total rebounds. He was honored as a member of the second all-conference team.

Sophs' Future Looks Promising

The sophomore basketball squad set off predictions of good things to come for the Hawks' varsity team as they finished their season with a 10-6 record.

Leading the scoring for the sophs was Lindy Branning, followed closely by Gary Kos and Steve Kelley. Kelley was moved to the varsity about mid-season.

Branning, Kelley, and John Kos all did well in the rebound department.

Hawkettes End Season 11-5

1964 brought a successful season to the Mid-Prairie girls' basketball team as they won 11 games and were defeated only 5 times. The Hawkettes captured runner-up spot in the sectional tournament and advanced to the semi-finals of the district. There they met with defeat at the hands of a tough Van Buren Squad.

Judy Slemmons, top scorer for the Hawkettes, received All-State honorable mention and was fifteenth high scorer in the state of Iowa. She averaged 36 points per game, and hit a high of 63 points in the win over Durant.

Ward Niffenegger comes home in the lead after his mile run. He ran the half-mile as well.

Tom Slockett springs to the line for first place in the 220-yard dash. He set a new record in that event at Durant this year with a time of 22.4 seconds. The mark stands as a meet record and a school record as well.

Thinclads Topple Records

School records fell rapidly this year as the annual crop of sprinters was especially good for '64.

Though bad weather hampered early spring practice a great deal, mid-season flowered into the peak of performance. The 440-yd. and 880-yd. relay team had captured meet marks at the Beaver Relays (Wilton Junction), the Mustang Relays (Bloomfield), and the Wildcat Relays (Durant).

Old school marks fell in the 440-yd. and 880-yd. relays, the shot put (Jim Hartsock), the 100-yd. dash (Gary Kos), the 220-yd. dash (Tom Slockett), and the low hurdles (Gary Martin).

Four Events Qualify for State Meet

Coached by Miss Jacqueline Flake and Mr. Marvin O'Hare, the nineteen girls who represented Mid-Prairie in girls' track competition brought home many honors, medals, trophies, and much experience in the '64 season.

Four events qualified for the state meet by their performance in the district meet--the 880-yard relay, the 880-yard medley relay, the 320 meter shuttle relay. The girls received two second places and one fifth place, which tied them with South Hamilton (Jewel) for eighth place in the meet.

Bonnie Phillips crosses the finish line in the 60-yd. dash. She was all-around sprinter for the team.

Rita Koenig and Tom Slockett, gypsy sweethearts, join in a gypsy love song after Tom decides to give up his wanderings and return to the tribe.

Linda Nickell and Rita Koenig try to persuade Tom to stay as Brad Kiese, the villain, and Janet Johnson look on.

Linda Nickell assists Glenn Miller (the fortune teller) in his plot to save Tom from the villainous Vario.

The Gypsy Wanderer

Dramatics

Terry Slockett vigorously assists Rita Koenig in her plan to reduce during the production of "The Egg and I".

Charlene Bush is dubious about the "Lingery Lady's" (Sally Allen) promise of a New You through the purchase of a Shocking Scarlet slip.

Mrs. Guldenzopf,
director.

The Smiths seem none too overjoyed by the news that their daughter has found a new boyfriend.
L to R: Rita Koenig, Larry Plecker, Glenn Miller, Charlene Bush.

Mrs. Higgins,

Ron McClellen proposes to Diana Reif in an old-fashioned melodrama, "Fireman, Save My Child".

Barb Beckman listens to Steve Kelley who portrays Silas in "The Death of the Hired Man".

Students Present Spring Play, "The Peace Corp Girls".

Marcia Swain and Rusty Parcell argue over the merits of being able to swim during the M-P production of "The Peace Corps Girls".

Much to the amazement of Mike Patterson, Terry Slockett is expertly repairing an engine with (of all things!) a bobby pin. June Kempf (far R) watches.

The Tinikling (Filipino national dance) was presented between acts by Deanna Statler and Diana Reif. Ron McClellen (far L) and Dennis Beckler assist.

Tom Slockett played both the Filipino and the American national anthems.

Dance Band

Dances

The holiday season brings a night of dancing as students enjoy the Christmas Prom.

Janet Johnson, escorted by Larry Huber, is crowned Sweetheart of the 1964 Sweetheart Swirl.

Preparations for the Prom

Doug Goschke literally "reaches for the sky" as Mr. Anderson, and Steve Walker assist him with ceiling decorations.

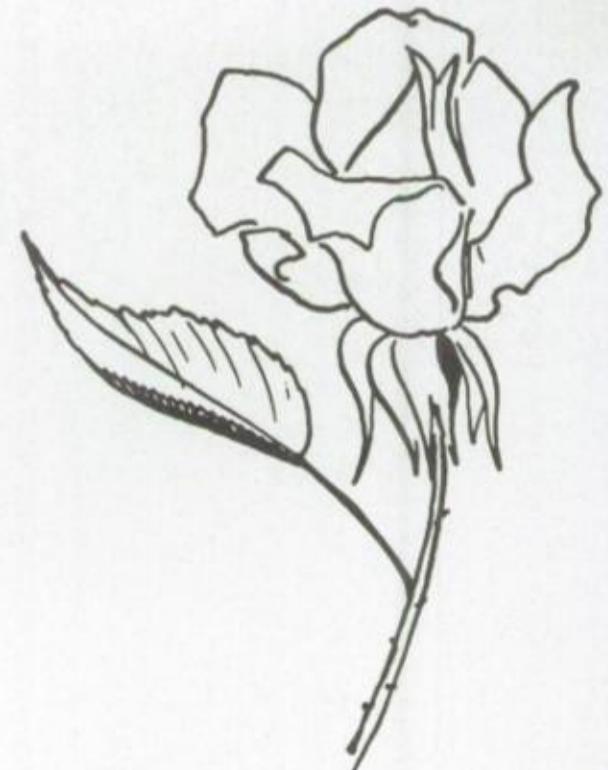

Susie Swartzendruber puts finishing touches on "Moonlight and Roses" Mural, another feature of this year's prom.

Junior-Senior Prom

The theme "Moonlight and Roses" converted the student center into an outdoor paradise with a blue sky, stars and white picket fence.

Students and their dates dance to evening music supplied by Leonard's Melodyaires.

Refreshments proved to be a main attraction of the evening. The menu included Hors d'oeuvres, Monte Carlo Chips (crackers), Moonshine (lemonade), Rosa Alba (cake), Moonsprite (punch), and Buds and Seeds (mints and nuts).

The evening was enjoyed by all. There was dancing, eating, and talking over good times.

Senior Awards Night

Charlene Bush, valedictorian, received a trophy from Mr. Evans.

Mr. Evans presented a trophy to the salutatorian, Donna Schlabau.

Attorney Laurence Griffiths, representing the Bar Association, presented John Orr with the Citizenship Award.

Principal George R. Evans congratulated Judy Slemmons and Rusty Parcell for receiving the Danforth Awards.

June Kempf was the winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaking Award.

Principal George R. Evans presented Carmen Griggs with the DAR Award.

Mr. Statler presented Donna Schlabau with the Bausch & Lomb Award.

Commencement

The audience paid respect to the graduates as they marched down the aisle of Mid-Prairie High School for the last time.

Mr. Frank T. Nye, Associate Editor of the Cedar Rapids Gazette, gave the commencement address.

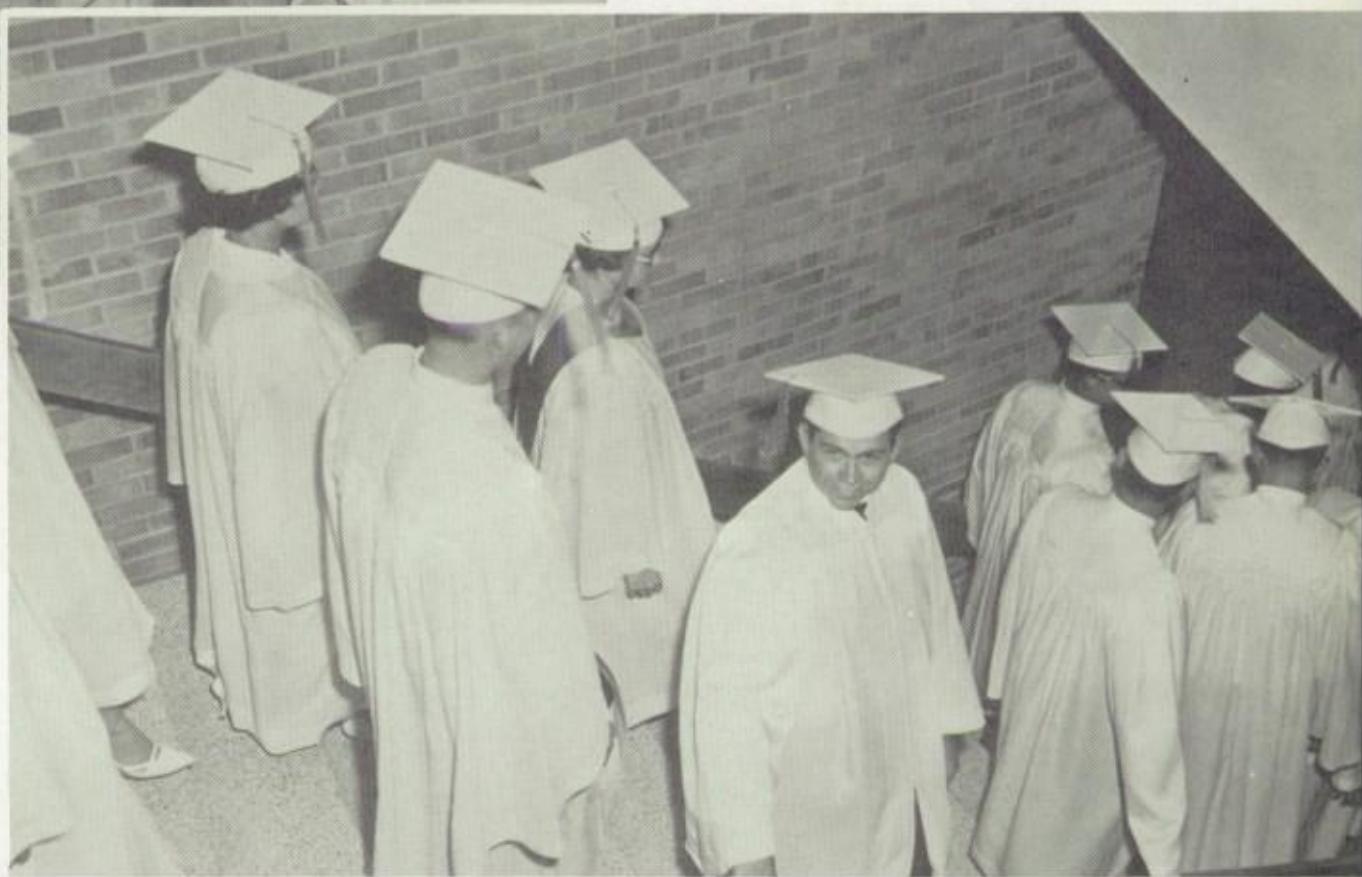

Senior Class president, Rusty Parcell, received his diploma from Mr. Robert Stout, chairman of the Board of Education.

The seniors took one last moment to readjust caps and gowns and look around before their role as students would come to an end. In a few minutes they would become graduates of Mid-Prairie High School.

The Class of 1964 descended the stairs of Mid-Prairie for the last time before they became graduates.

The seniors marched down the aisle and to their seats of honor.

Rusty Parcell, Senior Class president, presented the Senior Challenge.

We Have Grown. . .

There come times in everyone's life when he stops at a milestone in his progress to review his path and re-establish his course.

I look back over these past three years with great pride in my fellow man. I have seen Mid-Prairie grow from a seedling of an idea through the humblest of beginnings and come to glorious flower through the new building. I have seen the name of Mid-Prairie grow, through the efforts of faculty and students alike, into a symbol of academic excellence. I have seen the student body and community acquire a spirit of dignity and pride in this institution.

And I have grown, as we all have grown. We have acquired a love of learning, a respect for hard work, and a pride in achievement. We have matured emotionally, as the institution has. Our judgment has developed. Our tastes have become more refined. We are on our way to successful destiny as responsible citizens.

But it has not been easy. The help of countless people has made it possible, and deep in our hearts we will not forget them. We owe them so much, and yet all they require in payment is that we do our best with what they have so abundantly provided us. We have grown to recognize the significance of that earnest desire, and with the tools we grow ever more proficient in using, we will not betray it.

And my pride in Mid-Prairie is surmounted only by my wishes for its continued success.

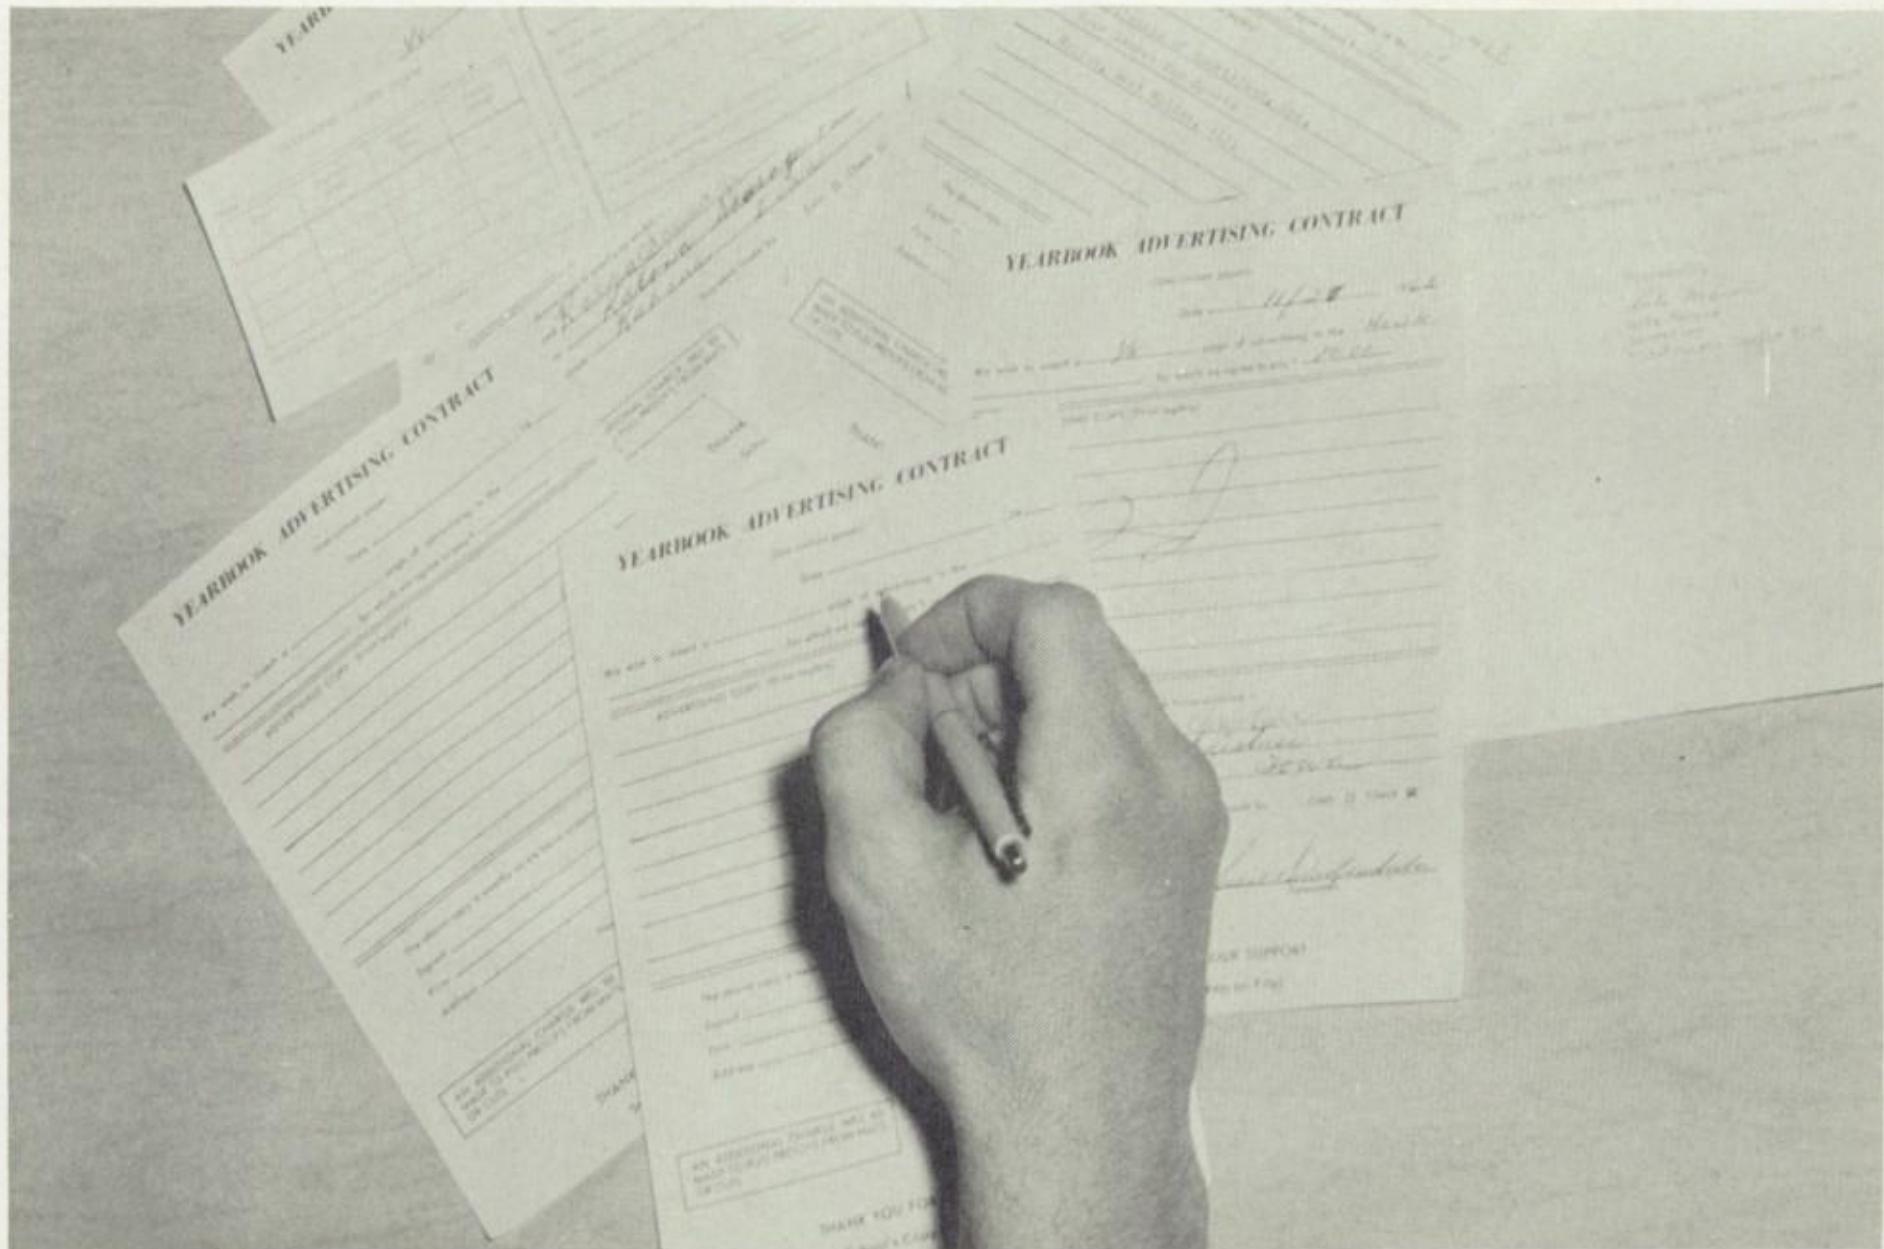

Brad Kiesey
